AHS and elementary school could be competing for funds

By Lisa Boudreau

Some school officials are worried that plans to enlarge Andover High School are getting lost in the rush to approve plans for a new elementary school first.

"If you only had the money to fund one project, then maybe you should fund the project with the most need," said Dick Muller, of 18 Candlewood Drive, a volunteer member of the School Committee's ad hoc finance committee.

During a presentation to the committee Tuesday night, Mr. Muller said the enrollment projections for incoming kindergarten classes are in a downward trend until the end of the decade. He said a new elementary school, which could be ready as soon as September 1995 at the rate planning is going, wouldn't be needed until 2004, when the elementary popu-

Val Tobler, age 20, is here from Nebraska, working as a nanny

Val Tobler's days are unlike those of most 20-year-olds. Her biggest choice isn't what to wear in the morning or even what she'll eat for breakfast. Her days start off deciding what the two children she cares for will wear and what she'll make them for breakfast.

The Warriors also played Billerica Tuesday, winning 78-68, and they have an away game against Dracut Friday at 7:30 p.m. As of Tuesday's game, the Andover high boys' basketball team's record was 6-1. New law to protect pets and owners against rabies

By Lisa Boudreau

When you feed that cute raccoon in your back yard, you may be endangering your pets and your family if that animal has rabies. Everett Penney, Andover's health director, said reports of rabid raccoons have been documented as close to Andover as Harvard, Townsend and other communities in bordering Middlesex County.

A new state law signed by the governor last month, which requires all cats to be vaccinated against rabies, is a measure designed to slow the spread of rabies and protect pets as well as pet owners.

The law will be effective Feb. 24 and it requires that all cats 6 months and older be vaccinated against rabies.

"Cats are the most common link between the transmission of rabies from raccoon to humans," said Mr. Penney.

Owners may be fined up to $50 if their cats are not vaccinated. Regulations already exist requiring dogs to be vaccinated against rabies.

Political signs could be regulated

Town officials at Town Meeting in the spring may try to amend the town's bylaws to regulate political signs on private property, but the proposed changes would have little or no effect on current practices, according to Thomas Urbelis, town counsel.

Andover records its own 'Home Alone' charge

By Don Staruk

A report of child neglect was filed against an Andover mother last Saturday, Jan. 2, after she allegedly left her two children home alone.

Just before 5 p.m. Saturday, police received a report of two children, a 13-year-old boy and a 9-year-old girl, who had been left alone in an apartment on Longwood Drive.

The person reporting, who remained anonymous, told police the children were often left alone for several hours at a time and could often be heard screaming at each other. On Saturday, the woman reported hearing the girl making threats with a knife, and went to police.

At 5:16 p.m., officers James Hashem and Craig Poirier went to the home and found the two children there alone. The children told the officers that their mother was visiting friends in Salem, N.H. Officer Hashem contacted the mother who said she would come straight home. The officer asked her to call him when she arrived, but she never called, according to Sgt. Hashem's report. Police filed a 51A report of child neglect with the Department of Social Services.

Several incidents of children being left home alone have been reported recently, including one Sunday in Rochester, N.H., since a couple was arrested last week in a Chicago suburb and charged with leaving their two children, 9 and 4, at home for nine days while they vacationed in Mexico.

Andover police Sgt. Brian Pattullo said this week that there is no law regarding how old a child must be in order to be left home alone, but said that it was really a judgment call.

"Within reason," Sgt. Pattullo said.

Teacher contract talks resume

Representatives from the School Committee and the teachers' union were scheduled to meet Wednesday night, after Townsmen press time, for their first joint-mediation session in several weeks. Each side had met separately with the mediator before the holidays.

Mary Lyman, a member of the School committee and its negotiating team, said she and fellow committeewoman Susan Dalton are scheduled to represent the committee Wednesday night.

"I'm hopeful there can be some progress," she said.

Betsy Jankauskas and the other six members of the union's bargaining team and four members of the union's committee on finances are scheduled to represent the Andover Education Association.

Ms. Jankauskas said she hopes the previous month's accomplishments made during the separate meetings with the mediator will spur progress at Wednesday night's meeting.

"I hope we will be able to get this resolved this week," she said.

Microsoft and Word Perfect are also offered at various levels.

Many old favorites will be offered. Check the booklet for puppy and dog obedience, sign language, conversational Russian, Greek, Spanish and Arabic, ceramics, speed mittens, volleyball and soccer, as well as many more.

The DCS will sponsor a Vermont weekend at Smugglers' Notch and a ski and snowboard shuttle to Stratton Mountain on Jan. 16 and Feb. 13. Those who prefer to head south will enjoy the Disney cruise package or a March trip to the Trump Taj Mahal. The DCS offers trips to see Forever Plaid, Disney's World on Ice, Robert Goulet in Camelot and the Harlem Globetrotters.

Registration for winter trips starts immediately and space is limited. Classes fill on a first-come, first-serve basis. There is a $10 per course fee for non-residents. The department is now accepting VISA and MasterCard payments for all classes. For more information, call 470-3800, Ext. 280.

Andover firefighters check out Andover High School Monday morning after a power failure, which sent students home early.

Power failure closes Andover high for one day

By Lisa Boudreau

Andover High School students had an unexpected extra day of winter vacation Monday, when the school was closed due to an electrical problem.

Principal Tim Thomas said a motor in one of the school's air conditioning units burned out that morning some time around 7:30, causing a small fire and damage to some electrical lines within the school.

"When we got into the office there was an electrical burning smell and some of the lights in the office and in a few classrooms were off," said Mr. Thomas.

The fire department was notified and students and staff were evacuated. They were allowed to return once fire officials determined there was no threat of further fires.

After investigating the cause of the problem, officials decided school should be call off for the day. According to Superintendent Mark McQuillan, the main electrical feeder under the school "blew out" and to fix it the school's power would have to be shut off.

Damage from the fire shut down the school's intercom system, one of the building's two elevators and lighting in several areas including 18 classrooms and some stairwells.

"If further complications developed we wouldn't have been able to communicate with the staff and we felt it was wiser to close the school for the day," said Dr. McQuillan.

Students were dismissed at 9:05 and teachers at 9:30 a.m., he said.

The problems were repaired Monday and school re-opened Tuesday.

lation grows again.

Today's elementary population will overflow the high school starting in three to four years, said Mr. Muller. The high school population is expected to grow from 1,238 students to 1,700 by the year 2002. According to school officials, the current school is designed to accommodate 1,525 students. The high school has had as many as 1,600 students in the past.

The town's two middle schools are large enough to handle the increased enrollment coming from the elementary schools, according to Superintendent Mark McQuillan. Frank Bellistri, of 23 Brown St., asked the committee if rumors that it is considering moving ninth-graders back to the middle school were true. The committee said it has not seriously considered that option and its first choice is to build additions onto the high school.

Susan Dalton, a member of the School Committee, said the number of students in elementary school now, who will go onto Andover High School, suggest a "greater priority than originally thought."

Mr. Muller said his committee believes the school department should bring a plan that addresses both crowding problems before Town Meeting in April. He said a comprehensive plan has a better chance of being approved than two separate requests, one for the elementary this spring and one for the high school next year.

Current school plans

The town approved spending more than $500,000 all together at last April's and November's town meetings to develop education specifications and architectural designs to add more elementary and high school space. Currently, architectural plans to build a new elementary school on the Penguin Park site off Burnham Road are nearing completion. Ken Gropper, of Farrwood Drive, chairman of the town's School Building Committee, said his committee hopes to bring architectural plans for the new elementary school before the School Committee for approval by the end of the month and to the state for reimbursement approval by the state's June 1 deadline. But he said "there is no way" his group could produce plans for the high school's addition by June 1.

"We must have (School Committee) approval on education specifications for a high school, which are much more complex than an elementary school," said Mr. Gropper.

He added that his committee has been operating under the assumption since it was formed last spring, that the School Committee's priority was creating more elementary space first, and then approaching additions to the high school.

According to Mr. Gropper, approximately $30,000 of the $500,000 in planning funds was allocated for high school designs.

"Thirty thousand doesn't get us past a feasibility study," he said.

The SBC plans to request architectural design money at this April's Town Meeting once the School Committee has determined education specifications.

The School Committee and a group of high school administrators and teachers are currently working on the specifications. Those decisions include how many classrooms to add, how large the cafeteria, gym and locker room facilities should be, what to do with unused auto and woodshop rooms and if plans should include an indoor field house, pool and hockey rink.

Once those decisions are made by the School Committee, Mr. Gropper said an architect may be able to redesign plans from 1978 when a plan to add seven classrooms onto the high school was dropped.

"Depending on the ed. specs., we may need to do nothing more than redesign old documents," Mr. Gropper said.

"The last thing we want is an us-versus-them attitude. The answer to the question is that no, we haven't forgotten about the high school," Mr. Gropper said.

The School committee will continue to discuss education specifications for the high school at its next meeting, Tuesday, Jan. 19, at 7:30 p.m. in the school offices at Whittier Court.

Andover High School Principal Tim Thomas and several teachers will discuss the school's human services, health and physical education programs, as well as components of the school's now-defunct home economics program.

Schools to hire an acting business manager

The school department has decided to hire an acting business manager to replace Frank Paul, who retired this week after 10 years of heading the school's business department.

The School Committee will begin searching for a permanent replacement in April, said Candace Hall, head of the town's personnel department.

The school's business manager is responsible for the administration and supervision of all business and non-educational operations of the school department, including budgeting and accounting.

The School Committee has not yet determined a salary for the acting or replacement business manager.

Mr. Paul's salary after 10 years on the job was $65,344.

Ms. Hall said that salary is on the high end of the scale because of Mr. Paul's experience and his length of service.

TOWNTALK

Police and fire dispatcher Audrey Denis, whose foot was crushed in a freak accident in August when her car rolled over the retaining wall behind the police station, returned to work Monday night.

Ms. Denis lost some function in her foot and is still undergoing physical therapy, but was happy to be back on the job, she said Tuesday.

Ms. Denis has no restrictions as far as her work is concerned, and said she is feeling and walking "pretty good."

"Just a little limp," she said.

Ms. Denis was hurt on the night of Aug. 9 when she tried to stop her 1988 Saab from rolling over an eight-foot retaining wall at the police station and ended up going over with it. The car had begun to roll and she apparently got the car door open and put her left foot in to hit the brake when the front wheels went over the wall, dropping the running board onto Ms. Denis' right foot.

She was found outside the station by someone at Friendly's Ice Cream, next door to the station, who alerted police inside. She was taken to Lawrence General Hospital and underwent reconstructive surgery the next day at the Lahey Clinic in Burlington to insert pins and wires in the foot.

Ms. Denis, 32, has been with the department for eight or nine years, according to Chief Harold Hayes, her step-father. She lives in Bradford with her husband, Robert, and two children, Harry, 4, and Gregory, 2.

residential and downtown trash bins.

"The problem in town is twofold. There are some people who like to domesticate and feed raccoons and other small wildlife that could be carrying rabies. We've even received reports of children feeding wildlife nuts and other things by hand. Not only is there the possibility of contracting rabies (if bitten or scratched), but it takes away the natural response in the animal to stay away from things it should be afraid of," Mr. Penney said.

The downtown area has also been a popular spot for local raccoons and other wildlife. There are many restaurants in the area whose trash bins and dumpsters attract small animals.

Mr. Penney said it's important for restaurants as well as house owners to store their trash properly to discourage raccoons. People should store and put out their trash in tightly covered metal or heavy rubber bins. Plastic bags, Mr. Penney said, are not effective in keeping out wildlife.

Lt. Mooers' trial delayed

By Don Staruk

The alleged incest case of former Andover Police Lt. Donald Mooers Jr. was delayed Tuesday, Jan. 5, to Friday, Jan. 22, at 2 p.m. in Lawrence Superior Court when a new start date for the trial should be assigned.

Mr. Mooers, 51, of Hampton, N.H., was a 23-year veteran of the Andover Police Department when he abruptly retired on Dec. 17, 1991, one day before he was secretly indicted on six charges of incest. Mr. Mooers was arraigned on Jan. 6, 1992, and is free on his personal recognizance.

The case has been continued 12 times since the arraignment. In September a trial date was set for Oct. 21, but the start was then put off to Dec. 7. In December, the case was delayed to this past Tuesday for assignment of a new trial date.

Judge Margot Botsford, at Lawrence Superior Court, is now expected to assign a trial date on Jan. 22, according to Steve O'Connell, spokesman for the Essex County District Attorney's office.

"Hopefully, you'll have the trial date within a month of that," Mr. O'Connell said Tuesday.

Neil Hourihan, of Salem, Mass., Mr. Mooers' attorney, is also expected to file motions to examine the psychiatric records of the alleged victim at that time, according to Mr. O'Connell.

THE REAL ESTATE CORNER

with Jean Fitzgerald & Pamela Lebowitz

IS THE PRICE RIGHT?

Once you've found the perfect home, no matter how much you love it, you'll probably want to know that you're paying a fair price for it. How can you be sure?

You can start by talking with the Realtor who will write up the offer for you. You could ask for information about other properties for sale in the area. What are their asking prices and how do they compare to the home you are considering? Ask for the sale prices of homes that have actually sold and settled. If you feel the house you like is overpriced, that should not keep you from making an offer that you think is fair. Some sellers are willing to negotiate on price or terms, and the Realtor would be happy to write up your offer and present it to the sellers for you.

For solid advice on buying or selling real estate, consult the professionals at Century 21 Minuteman Realty. Please call us a 475-1243, or stop by our office at 2 Elm Square.

DeWolfe adds buyer brokers to firm

Effective Jan. 1, 1993, customers of DeWolfe New England may choose to be represented in their real estate transaction by a buyer broker, according to Richard B. DeWolfe, CEO of DeWolfe New England.

DeWolfe announced recently that the company would be the first major residential real estate firm in New England to begin offering the choice of buyer representation to prospective homebuyers.

"DeWolfe New England will continue to offer the traditional real estate services to buyers and sellers. However, we must respond to the needs of consumers," said Mr. DeWolfe, "and the way New Englanders buy homes is already undergoing change."

DeWolfe will require all associates, managers, mortgage and relocation personnel to attend DeWolfe's new Agency Certification Program, thereby ensuring superior quality and performance of its professional services for both sellers and buyers of DeWolfe, said company personnel.

"Our homebuyers will benefit by receiving the choice of representation, in addition to our existing home-finding, mortgage assistance and relocation services. Our home-seller clients will be better served by attracting the growing pool of potential, qualified buyers who have already chosen to work with buyer brokers," Mr. DeWolfe said.

DeWolfe New England is headquartered in Lexington. The company has 32 residential sales centers, which serve Massachusetts, New Hampshire, northern Rhode Island and southern Maine. The firm is made up of more than 750 professionals and also operates DeWolfe Relocation Services and DeWolfe Mortgage Services. The DeWolfe Companies, Inc., the parent company, is a publicly held company listed on NASDAQ under the symbol DWLF.

The local office is at 76 Main St.

Brooks gets grant for minorities

Brooks School Headmaster Lawrence W. Becker recently announced that the school has received a $400,000 grant from the DeWitt Wallace - Reader's Digest Fund. The grant is part of the fund's Independent School Opportunity Program (ISOP), established in 1988.

The grant will enable the school to extend its commitment to diversity over a period of six years by offering a substantially larger number of scholarships to African-American, Asian-American, Latino and Native American students specifically chosen from the Greater Lawrence area.

Scholarship support from the grant amounting to $308,000 will bring four students to Brooks, two of whom would be boarding students. During the same period, the school will match these funds, resulting in an increase of eight students of color who will be enrolled at Brooks between 1993 and 1995. Scholarship aid will continue through 1999, when the last of these students graduates.

In the coming months, school officials will work closely with local school administrators and community leaders to identify prospective candidates. The first of these scholarship students will enroll at Brooks in September. The grant also provides $92,000 to support two, two-year teaching internships for men and women of color wishing to enter the teaching profession. Included is a stipend for summer graduate study.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

VENEERS OF RESPECTABILITY

A very effective technique for restoring front teeth that are chipped, worn, severely stained or eroded at the gum line involves the use of a laminate veneer. This is a rigid shell which is fabricated in the dental laboratory and then bonded to the front portion of the tooth. So that the tooth to be laminated with a veneer will retain its normal thickness after veneer application, the dentist may remove some of its front surface. An impression is then taken of the tooth, a model is cast, and a veneer is fabricated to fit the model. In a second visit to the dentist, the pared down tooth surface is etched with acid and the veneer is attached with a bonding agent. The preferred material for veneers is porcelain because of its durability, stain-resistance and natural appearance.

You will find that our office is a unique, advanced facility designed to provide patients with the most comfortable and convenient dental care possible. Part of being convenient is providing all the dental services you and your family require, such as fillings, gum treatments, cosmetic dentistry, crowns and bridges, dentures, etc. Here at 296 Lowell Street, Rt. 133, with easy access off Rt. 93, we all work together to help make your dental visits a pleasant experience. For your next appointment, call us at 475-2431, Mon & Thur 10-8, Tues & Fri 8-6, and by appointment. P.S. Porcelain laminate veneers can also be used to mask caps caused by undersized teeth.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

PAIN IN THE NECK

The neck is one of the most frequently strained structures in the body. Its susceptibility to stress and strains is largely due to the fact that the neck is the most vulnerable part of the spinal column. The neck (cervical spine) is composed of seven small bones (vertebrae), supported only by muscles and ligaments that help maintain and balance the head which weighs about ten pounds. Even a seemingly insignificant bump or fall can affect any of the eight pairs of spinal nerves of the cervical spine which lead to various parts of the body. Pinched or irritated nerves can result in pain between the shoulder blades, headache, facial pain, dizziness, shoulder/arm/hand numbness, etc. It is the chiropractor's job to diagnose and treat neck problems that have such far-reaching effects.

If you or a family member suffers with any of these symptoms, don't wait another minute. We aim to get to the cause of your pain not mask your symptoms. Please call DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042, for an appointment. We offer natural and safe care for the entire family and accept only those patients we sincerely feel we can help. Our office is located at 15 Central Street. P.S. Repeated episodes of a stiff neck can be an early sign of joint or disc degeneration.

Biotech Scholars Program funds 20 scholarships

The Massachusetts Biotechnology Council (MBC) recently announced the establishment of a Biotechnology Scholars Program that will make available 20 scholarships of $1,000 each to high school seniors who have demonstrated an interest in science and are continuing their science education at a four-year college.

The first scholarship will be awarded in April for the 1993-'94 school year. One of the eligible communities is Andover.

"One of the most important goals of the MBC is to enhance life science education and the training of a skilled workforce in Massachusetts," said Garen Bohlin, MBC president and executive vice president of Genetics Institute Inc. "We established our education initiative over a year ago to help support this goal. These scholarships demonstrate our commitment in a tangible way and complement the range of educational activities the MBC already has in place."

Susan K. Moulton, MBC director of education and training, added, "The MBC is very excited about our Biotechnology Scholars Program. In addition to helping students pursue an education and career in science, the scholarships are a way for the biotechnology industry to thank those communities that have welcomed biotechnology into their borders."

Students must live in Andover or one of the other 20 cities and towns that have biotechnology companies located within their borders to be eligible for the scholarships.

MBC Biotechnology Scholars Program scholarships will be awarded on the basis of academic record, participation in school and community activities and a demonstrated interest in science, as well as work experience and unusual personal or family circumstances. Financial need will not be a determining factor. The program and selection process will be managed independently by Citizens' Scholarship Foundation of America Inc.

The MBC Education and Training Initiative, launched in September 1991, supports life science education and training statewide. Its goals include providing a focal point for biotechnology education activities, acting as a resource about biotechnology and life science education, helping educational institutions establish biotechnology training programs and providing teacher training and life science materials to teachers and students in grades kindergarten through 12.

The Massachusetts Biotechnology Council was established to promote the social and economic benefits of biotechnology in Massachusetts.

Members include 67 biotechnology companies in the state and 49 allied firms.

Women & Pre-Nuptial Agreements

If you are contemplating marriage or remarriage, you may be concerned that you will risk the eventual loss of some or all of your property or other assets in the event of a dissolution of your marriage by death or divorce. You may also be uneasy about raising these concerns with your prospective husband because you do not wish to seem unromantic or greedy. A properly negotiated and drafted pre-nuptial agreement can often address these very genuine concerns. The assistance of a lawyer in the negotiation and drafting process is essential if you wish your agreement to be valid and enforceable at some later time.

Kristen James marries Michael Kopp

Kristen Laura James and Michael Franz Kopp were married July 4 in a ceremony officiated by the Rev. Joseph Eder at the Franciscan Church in Salzburg, Austria.

The music of Mozart was performed by the Franciscan Choir and the Ensemble Pro Musica Sacra under the direction of Bernhard Gfrerer for the wedding Mass.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Brigitta Pallauf of Salzburg. Michael Pallauf, also of Salzburg, was best man. Maximillian Lammer, Petra Lammer, Helmut Lammer and Helga Lammer served as acolytes. Verses from the scriptures were read by Peter Kopp of Salzburg, Scott Griesser of Dallas, Texas, and Karl-Hardwig Kaltner of Salzburg.

The bride wore a Bianchi gown of silk faced taffeta with a fitted Venetian lace bodice, portrait neckline and puff sleeves adorned with sequins and seed pearls and a full skirt with chapel train. Her chapel illusion veil was draped from a headpiece of pearls, jewels and silk roses. She carried a cascade of white and pink mademoiselle roses, dendrobium orchids, philanopsis and ivy.

Guests at the wedding traveled from the United States, Austria, Germany, Italy, Sweden and Poland. Following a reception at St. Peter Stiftskeller in Salzburg, the couple left for Italy.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Robert James of Andover, is a graduate of Andover High School and Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas. She was a December 1992 candidate for a master's degree at the University of Southern California, Los Angeles.

Dr. and Mrs. Michael Kopp

Her husband, son of Dr. and Mrs. Peter H. Kopp of Salzburg, graduated from the University of Graz. He is a medical doctor specializing in Radio-Therapy Oncology at Land's Hospital, Salzburg, and a medical doctor with the Austrian Ambulance Service.

Builder of West Parish Church organ to present free public concert Sunday

Bradley Rule, organ builder and recitalist from New Market, Tenn., will present a free public concert at West Parish Church Sunday, Jan. 10, at 3 p.m.

Mr. Rule is the builder of the West Parish Church tracker organ, dedicated in June 1992.

This concert is the third of an inaugural organ recital series to celebrate the new organ and introduce it to the community and guest organists.

Joyce Painter Rice, music director at West Parish Church, said that "Bradley's program is varied in style and will certainly use the organ well." He will include familiar works by Bach, Handel and Franck as well as lesser known pieces by Bruhns and Viernie. Perhaps the most esoteric piece is the Bach Sonata III in D Minor, a "sectional piece" in three voices: one voice played with each hand and the third by the feet.

Mr. Rule will be accompanied by a wind ensemble in the Mozart Sinfonia Concertante in Eb Major. Guest artists are Roxann Nickerson on oboe; Shu Satoh, bassoon; Barbra Rabson, French horn; and Ron Dann, clarinet.

Other pieces include an E. Power Biggs arrangement of Sousa's Stars and Stripes Forever, two American hymn preludes by Seth Bingham and the fiery Symphony No. 1, Final, by the French Romantic composer, Louis Vierne.

Bradley Rule

Mr. Rule learned to play the organ at the age of 13, using a 1896 organ method book that came with a parlor organ he inherited and rebuilt. He received his bachelor of music in organ performance with high honors from the University of Tennessee. He worked for the Andover Organ Company in Lawrence before establishing B. Rule and Company in New Market, Tenn., where he builds and restores mechanical-action organs. He has given numerous recitals, including two at national conventions of the Organ Historical Society.

The concert is sponsored by the music committee of West Parish Church. Donations to the organ concert fund will be accepted. A reception will follow the performance.

OBITUARIES

Marie M. Baratte Abbot and PA teacher

Marie Madeleine Baratte, 78, of 3 Punchard Ave., died Monday, Jan. 4, at Lawrence General Hospital.

She was born and raised in Brittany, France. Mlle. Baratte was educated in both France and at Edinburgh University in Scotland.

She came to Andover in 1946 to teach French at Abbot Academy. She taught there until 1973, when Abbot merged with Phillips Academy, where she taught until her retirement in 1980.

According to her friend and former colleague at Phillips, Richard Boulanger, her two loves were France and teaching.

"She was a gracious, kind and patient person, who was in love with her work and with France. France was really her first love. She always maintained her French citizenship," he said.

During World War II when Brittany was occupied by Germany, her family worked with French underground resistance forces to help downed Allied airmen hide and later escape from occupied France, said Mr. Boulanger.

Jean St. Pierre, who taught at Abbot and Phillips with her, said Mlle. Baratte's passing is a loss for her friends at the academy.

"She was a special, rare soul, who lived to teach. She was able to blend the two countries so well for her students. It is a great loss for all of us," she said.

After her retirement from Phillips in 1980, Mlle. Baratte continued to be involved in education. She tutored French part time until very recently.

Townsmen reporter Lisa Boudreau was one of her students in the mid-'80s.

"I never thought of going to Mademoiselle Baratte's to study as work. I enjoyed our tutoring sessions, but most of all I enjoyed our conversations — always in French — about her life that always ended our afternoon sessions.

"She made learning the a lovely, kind and caring person," said Kathy Salvi of Andover, a friend who often drove her to Mass at St. Augustine Church.

Mlle. Baratte was awarded the Chevalier dans l'ordre des Palmes Academiques by the French consul, for her achievements in spreading French culture and language, an award reserved for faithful services in education. She was also an honorary member of the Epsilon Beta Chapter of Alpha Mu Gamma Society, the foreign language society at Merrimack College.

Members of her family include a sister, Marthe Cooper of Guilford, Conn., and several nieces and nephews.

A Mass will be held Thursday at 3 p.m. at St. Augustine Church. Burial will be at a later date in France.

There are no calling hours.

Arrangements are by Edgertley & Bessom Funeral Home, 33 Pearson St.

pole and burst into flames 25 miles west of Cancun. The tour bus was en route to the Mayan ruins.

Thirty-four of the 52 tourists on the bus were Americans, 17 of whom were among the 25 dead. The other 17 Americans were injured. A Leeds, Mass., couple, Mark and Patricia Bradford, were also among the dead.

Mr. Chen was a professor in the plastics engineering department at UMass, Lowell. He was also president and part owner of Conprotec Inc., a manufacturer of dispensing equipment for adhesives in Salem, N.H.

Mrs. Chen was a homemaker.

Mr. Chen's brother and sister-in-law, Willis and Jane Chen of 14 Blueberry Circle, were too distraught to speak about the deaths Wednesday. Stephen Liu, of 5 Peach Tree Path and a friend of Mr. Chen, said relatives and friends were gathered at the deceaseds' house and his brother's house.

Professor George Liaw, of 11 Alison Way, a colleague of Mr. Chen at UMass, said the Chens left on New Year's Eve for the five- or six-day vacation and were due home Tuesday.

Professor Francis Lai, another colleague of Mr. Chen, said the couple moved to Andover in 1970. The Chens were both from Taiwan and came to this country in 1964, Mr. Lai said. They lived in the New England area prior to coming to Andover about 22 years ago. They were married for "probably 25 years," he said.

Willis Chen moved to Andover to be near his brother, Mr. Lai said. Mr. Lai knew Mr. Chen for the last 12 or 13 years.

"He was an excellent teacher, loved by the students," Mr. Lai said.

Mr. Chen also brought a lot of contributions and grant money into the school, his colleague said.

"They had many friends and relatives here and in the United States," Mr. Lai said.

Dino Diamondis, Andover coordinator for H. Ross Perot's presidential campaign, said both the Chens were active supporters of Mr. Perot "from the very beginning."

"I got to know them during the campaign and they were just wonderful, wonderful, nice people," Mr. Diamondis said. "They had personally witnessed turmoil" in Taiwan and were concerned especially with the power of special-interest groups in government "because they had seen this for themselves."

Cathy Burnett, a parent volunteer who worked with Mrs. Chen at Sanborn Elementary School, said Mrs. Chen was very active in the school's Harvest Festival this fall. She was instrumental in teaching children to reach out and make friends with the senior citizens in the program.

"She was a very heartwarming mother who was anxious to participate in her child's school," said Ms. Burnett.

"How on earth do you sum up a life like that?" Lee Steen, a neighbor and close friend, said of Mrs. Chen. "The neighborhood is just devastated because she was that kind of neighbor. She was the kind of person who was always doing something for someone."

Ms. Steen lived next to the Chens since they built their Algonquin Avenue home 16 years ago.

"They put themselves out to include everybody in their lives. Eileen was very into macrobiotic dieting and foods, and would always bring you something over," Ms. Steen said. "It's just too cruel. It's just too sudden, too awful."

"They were wonderful people," said Barbara Jackson, of 35 Algonquin Ave., and who along with her husband, Dick, was a close friend of the Chens. "We just can't recover. It's just devastating."

Val Tobler likes her job as a nanny in Andover

"It's the most positive job I've ever had. I love to get up in the morning to be with the kids," she said.

Personal background

Ms. Tobler attended classes at Colorado College in Colorado Springs, but decided she didn't want to return. Previously, she had been a nanny, when she graduated early from high school and took a job with a Washington, D.C., family for six months. She enjoyed the job and when she decided not to return to college, Ms. Tobler thought she might like to try being a nanny again.

Ms. Tobler said she wanted to see other parts of the country and decided somewhere in New England and near the ocean would be an area where she'd like to work.

Finding a family

Ms. Tobler contacted a nanny agency that then compiled an extensive background file on her past experiences with children, the type of family and the ages of children with whom she prefers to work.

"References are required when you go through an agency. Most (agencies) like three to four. I have no official training in childcare and I've never taken child-care courses, but I do know CPR and first aid," she said.

The agency gave her name and file information to the Tuckers, who called her references and then called her.

"We did everything over the phone. It's kind of hard because they have a whole file on you, and you just have their voices. They also sent me a picture of their family and that helped," Ms. Tobler said.

She was hired almost five months ago and signed a one-year contract with the Tuckers, who paid a finding fee to the agency. Because everything has worked out very well for her, Ms. Tobler said she's not very familiar with the procedures if a nanny and a family are not a good match. But, most matchings begin on a trial basis, she said.

Ms. Tobler said it is too early for her or for the family to decide if her contract will be continued next year, but so far she is very happy and she believes the Tuckers are too.

"I know they like me and so do the girls," she said.

What a nanny does

Ms. Tobler's responsibilities go beyond those of most part-time babysitters. She does light housekeeping, a lot of the cooking for the family, and she's responsible for administering prescribed medication if the children are ill.

She works five days a week. Three of those days she works from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m., and two from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. She has evenings and weekends off.

"When I'm off I try to spend as little time with the family as possible. It isn't that I don't like being with them and yes, we sometimes do hang out in the evenings, but I go to my room or I go out. The 2-year-old doesn't understand that I'm not working and I try to live my own life as much as I can," she said.

Ms. Tobler said she has plenty of time for a social life, which has included furthering her interest in painting by taking an acrylics class through the town's Department of Community Services. The problem, she said, is meeting people her age. She has met several women who are also nannies, and has become friendly with a few.

Her contract includes room and board and Ms. Tobler said she has been able to save money, pay bills such as her school loan and cover her own expenses that include her car. Some families provide a car for their nanny, but she decided she wanted to bring her own.

There are other benefits she receives as nanny for the Tuckers.

"I get to be part of a wonderful family that takes me to places such as Boston to see the Nutcracker with the children, and I get to live in a nice house that I wouldn't be able to afford, being a college drop-out," she said.

Advice for would-be nannies

The first two questions every person considering becoming a nanny should ask themselves, said Ms. Tobler, is, "Do you have the energy for the job and do you really love children?"

"You really have to know what it is like to be with kids all day. It isn't an easy thing to do. I had a friend visit over the holiday and my friend couldn't believe how much I did every day. It is really hard work and it is a job," she said.

Getting matched with a compatible family and with children the right age is also important. Ms. Tobler has a friend who is a nanny for children ages 16, 15 and 9. That woman's job includes much more scheduling and chauffeuring the children to daily appointments, she said.

Ms. Tobler said she is fortunate to be matched with such a nice family that treats her so well and includes her in many of their activities. The Tuckers gave Ms. Tobler an airplane ticket to Nebraska so she could go home and visit her family at Christmas.

One of the luxuries a nanny has to be ready to give up is personal space. Ms. Tobler has her own room and privacy when she is off duty, but she shares a kitchen with the family and her schedule is governed by their needs.

Sometimes an extra hug helps. Val delivers to Anne.

Don't wait to reach out

Marie Baratte died Monday at Lawrence General Hospital at age 78. Born and raised in France, Ms. Baratte came to Andover in 1946 to teach French at Abbot Academy and she later taught the same subject at Phillips Academy. Her full obituary is in today's Townsmen.

Reporter Lisa Boudreau last saw Ms. Baratte three years ago, on the street. At the time, Ms. Boudreau promised to call her. But she never got around to it.

Today, Ms. Boudreau is sorry she didn't call her friend. She has spent some time this week talking about how she shouldn't have put it off.

"I really regret that I didn't stop and take the time to give her a call and ask how she was because I genuinely cared," said Ms. Boudreau, who was tutored by Ms. Baratte in 1983 and 1984, when the now-reporter was a student at Andover High School and needed extra help with French.

Ms. Boudreau remembers with fondness and warmth having tea and cookies with her French teacher, whom she liked very much.

It's easy to put off today what can turn out to be some of life's most important moments: communing with and reaching out to friends.

So much abuse

Today's police log has more than the usual number of violations of restraining orders, even taking into consideration that the log is two weeks long.

The holidays are stressful times, which the police know well. (Imagine being a police officer and handling such a case.) Often, a person drinks too much, and then beats up on a so-called loved one.

This is not the first time the Townsmen has written about violent relationships, and it most likely will not be the last. Until society figures out how to deal better with abusive relationships, we all are responsible to listen to and reach out to the abused and to help them build enough self-esteem to find ways out of destructive relationships.

It's possible to live with cancer

By Perry Colmore

A friend suggests I tell my cancer story, especially because I did something to beat it and that story might be helpful to someone. It's a story I haven't shared in Andover, although I have written it in different ways in different publications. When you've had cancer and lived through it, it often feels right to share that news. Some of us call it giving back, for we have received so much ourselves.

A colleague at the Townsmen, who recently went through a cancer scare of her own, tells me, "We don't often hear of people making it through cancer."

About that same time, Alex Milmo of Landau Lane called me to say that her 14-year-old son, Stephen, had just returned from Washington, D.C., where he received a standing ovation from President Bush for singing at the Kennedy Center awards night. The evening was planned to honor actor Paul Newman and his wife, Joanne Woodward, for putting together the Hole-in-the-Wall Gang Camp, a free camp in Connecticut for children with cancer. One of Stephen's favorite things in life is that camp.

We wrote about Stephen's celebration of beating brain cancer, which he had in 1990. He came by the Townsmen early in December to talk about his Washington trip and he inspired me. So I told my colleague at the Townsmen who said she doesn't hear about people who have survived cancer: "I have come to think that not only can we survive it, many of us do survive it."

At Thanksgiving time, I received a birthday card from a friend who knew I was celebrating a special anniversary. "Happy fifth birthday," the card said. In November, I celebrated five years of good health since I was diagnosed with breast cancer. I was one of the lucky ones who had what I came to call a "bad mammogram," had a biopsy, found a tiny, early tumor, had it removed and that was it. Well, today I can say that's it.

At that time I wrote about the experience, partly to demystify what my parents' generation called "the Big C," and partly to begin to sort out my own recovery. My reward was immediate. An entire office of newspaper people phoned to tell me that every woman in that office had made an appointment for a mammogram after my column was published. That was good enough for me. I was glad I'd shared it.

Even this year, a woman in Andover told me she saw my column pinned up in the changing room of a hospital where she was having her annual mammogram.

My message to women is this: Have regular checkups and mammograms. I am alive and well today because I was diagnosed early.

Now I want to tell you another part of my story since this week I am feeling brave, thanks in part to Stephen Milmo, who freely shares his recovery with us and makes us feel hope.

Three months after my lumpectomy, I had another set of mammograms, part of a strict check-up schedule I was to follow.

"Looks like we're going to have to do another biopsy," my doctor phoned to say.

At that moment, I began to feel I should have had double mastectomies. But I had been reading, talking and doing a lot of research on cancer, trying to determine why I'd had it, and what I could do to prevent it. I read of three separate studies, including one by the National Insti-

Year for the Environment

Editor, Townsmen:

Once again, it's New Year's resolution time. Yesterday I searched for my 1992 list to see how well I did. After I blew the dust off, I quickly scanned it and grabbed my pencil to check off all the items I so diligently adhered to. Instead, I decided to just change the date to 1993. Oh, well....

Personally speaking, I have decided to make this my Year for the Environment. And that's where you come in.

My goal is to meticulously recycle every item with which I come in contact. But to do that, I have mega-questions concerning these items. Perhaps others will have the same or similar questions.

1. Can newspaper inserts go in with the newspapers?
2. Can you put junk mail in with the newspapers? How about if there are glassine envelope fronts involved?
3. How about magazines and direct mail catalogs? Will they contaminate the load?
4. Can you include supermarket-type bags?
5. Can cardboard be recycled? Product boxes such as cereal boxes, tissue boxes, etc., etc.?
6. What does one do with Saran wrap and the like?
7. How about aluminum foil?
8. How about a combo container - Ajax, for example? Must you remove the metal/plastic top before you recycle the cardboard?

It's possible to live with cancer

tutes of Health, that attempted to document a link between alcohol consumption and breast cancer. All three studies had been suspended for different reasons. But the fact that they had been launched at all was enough for me at the time. I was looking for something to try and I decided that would be it.

"How about we put off the biopsy, I give up drinking for three months, and then we do the mammograms all over?" I asked my doctor. "Will it kill me to wait three months?"

"No," he said, "but you probably won't see a difference in three months in the mammograms. Why don't we wait six months to do them?"

I couldn't do that. Six months was too long a time to be so afraid, so I persuaded him to try the three months.

That night I easily skipped my glass of wine, and for three months I drank sparkling water with a lime in it, when others were drinking alcohol. Sometimes I was sure it would make a difference; other times, I felt I must be out of my mind, in denial, just putting off what inevitably would have to be done.

9. It's easy to recycle glass bottles. What are the tops made of? Tin?

I'm sure there are more questions that others may have.

Perhaps Mrs. Cole could do a review on recycling and accommodate others as well.

Come 1994 I would certainly feel better about myself and my environment if I can check off my resolution as having been done, rather than just change the date to 1995. Maybe someone else out there feels the same way.

About the country club

Editor, Townsmen:

In your Dec. 31 story on the public hearings at the Planning Board on Andover Country Club, Section 3, you stated my concerns of traffic and sewers, but you did not quote the reasons behind these concerns that I voiced.

I think that in the issue of developing houses on the Andover Country Club that the cluster housing provision of the zoning bylaw is being abused. The developer is submitting plans where he is taking large blocks of unbuildable land and is counting these as the green space. For Section 3, the green space is a pond and marsh, which is already protected by wetland provisions. The result is that more houses can then be built than could be accommodated in a Single Family Residential B zoning.

These neighborhoods will be less desirable to the eventual owners and to the town because of the higher density; the additional households generated by the clustering will generate additional traffic that affects neighborhoods such as mine and that places additional demands on town services, such as sewer, police and schools, which will affect everyone in Andover.

Your headline characterized the proposal as reducing the number of houses from 20 to 13. In fact, the developer's representative stated that the remaining lots are smaller than they were in the earlier plan and that the seven lots abandoned (those located on the slopes of the great sand hill) will be counted as green space for a future proposal. The number of houses is not reduced, just rearranged.

To summarize, I think that the Planning Board should make sure that clustering is not used as a means for increasing housing density in Andover. A reasonable rule of thumb is that a cluster development should not have more units than would otherwise be allowed by a realistic layout of houses with the zoning restrictions and taking into account the details of the site.

A good downtown year

Editor, Townsmen:

Thank you. On behalf of the members of the Andover Center Association, I would like to express our sincere thanks to all our friends and neighbors who stopped in downtown Andover this season. 1992 was a challenging year for everyone, it was touching to see so many who supported our local business people.

We would also like to wish a fond farewell to our friends at Macartney's. We wish them all the very best for the future. A special thanks to John Zenevitch, former president at the Andover Center Association. He has given hours of dedication to the association and to downtown Andover. Thank you, John.

All the members of the Andover Center Association look forward to serving you in the coming year.

See you downtown.

P.S. Thank you to the many people who commented that they enjoyed the holiday music on Main Street. We were very happy that the music delighted so many. Unfortunately, we did receive a repeated complaint from one downtown person. Despite our best efforts to be accommodating by lowering the volume and reducing the playing time, we were unable to reach a reasonable solution. Yet, many suggested the music was too low.

Sanborn deserved more

Editor, Townsmen:

The coverage the Townsmen gave to the Sanborn School for having been selected by the U.S. Department of Education to receive a national award was inadequate (Dec. 31/page 7/one column). The Andover public schools have been honored with the highest recognition a school can receive. The Blue Ribbon Award is awarded only to schools that meet very rigorous qualifications that very few schools could fulfill. A delegation from Sanborn has been invited to receive this prestigious award at the White House. This award is presented by the president to outstanding schools in the United States. The Blue Ribbon Award represents the hard work and professionalism of the teaching and administrative staffs of all of the Andover public schools.

The Sanborn teachers worked very hard in the preparation of the document that was sent to Washington. They pulled together this fall, in spite of difficult times, to prepare for the site visit which took place in October requiring the observation and interview of every staff member in the school. But most significantly, this award indicates that Andover teachers are good at what they do. Andover has great teachers and great learners.

What, if not this, qualifies as front page news in a town the size of Andover? If the Townsmen had received such an award from the president, I am certain it would not be contained in four paragraphs on page seven next to the dental health tip for the month. If I were a teacher in Andover, I would be disappointed. Other nearby communities, such as Reading, have had front-page photographs of the school's personnel.

Interviews were conducted and a real sense of community pride was fostered. Gov. Weld has visited Blue Ribbon schools before delegations depart for Washington. This is a wonderful opportunity for us to show appreciation and respect to our dedicated teachers.

Think for a moment, as a business person, how the recognition of a job well done might feel under these hard economic times.

To know personally and be recognized publicly for being at the top of your field is significant. To the Sanborn teachers, and for that matter, to all of the Andover teachers for whom the Blue Ribbon Award was (in my mind) given, this award represents more than good teaching skills and a great curriculum. It signifies your professional dedication to the young people of Andover.

Her favorite Christmas gift

Editor, Townsmen:

As a regular Townsmen reader and avid cat lover, this letter is in response to the photo that appeared in the Nov. 25, 1992, issue of the Townsmen. Some terribly uncaring person disposed of four adorable kittens at the Dunkin' Donut parking lot in Andover. In a season of "good will to all" it seems impossible someone could leave them unknowing as to their fate.

My favorite Christmas gift came early this year. It was not from a fancy boutique, nor was it wrapped in a beautiful box with festive ribbons. Instead, it came from the banks of the Merrimack River in Lowell: a young cat carelessly abandoned by some unthinking person. On a Sunday afternoon walk, we were startled by cries of distress from a cat who crossed our path. She was thin and bedraggled from months of neglect.

She seemed to want us to follow her to her lair in a grove of bushes between the highway and river. Old rusty cans that had once held food were now empty; a plastic bowl, perhaps for water, was now dry. She seemed very timid and shy and would not let us get close, a natural reaction for an animal who has come to mistrust humans. We left for a few minutes and returned with cat food from a nearby convenience store. The cat, ravenously hungry from days without food, cleaned her plate. The decision was made to try and catch the semi-wild cat.

My son drove home to Andover and returned with a cat carrier. I believe she knew we were trying to help her and surprisingly my son was able to grab her and put her in the cage. Feeling the confines of the cage, she went hysterical, crying and howling and testing the limits of the cage. We opened the door and set her free. I knew we had to gain her trust before we could take her home with us. Thus began a 10-day odyssey.

We went daily with food and water; sometimes as early as 6 in the morning, other times late at night. She was usually there waiting for us at the same spot. If not, a few calls of "Kitty," "Kitty," and she came bounding. I took a cardboard box covered with plastic for her shelter as the warmth of fall was turning to the chill of winter. She seemed buoyed by the attention and food and became playful and social with us. However, she preferred to keep her distance. On the eighth day she let me pick her up. She had come to know the human voice can be caring, the human touch loving. However, she still would not allow us to carry her too far from her lair.

On the 10th day we returned, armed once again with the cat carrier. Efforts to put her in were unsuccessful, so we turned and headed for the car, knowing full well we would return again in the morning. To our surprise, Kitty followed us all the way to the car. My daughter reached down, placed her gently in the back window of the car and we headed home. Kitty looked around in confusion but seemed confident we meant her no harm.

Once at home, she spent the night in our warm basement, happily exploring the pipes and nooks and crannies of her new home. Late at night I tiptoed down to find her asleep in a basket we left for her. In the morning we took her to the veterinarian for a much needed checkup. She was pronounced in excellent health and after her shots, was ready to meet my five other cats at home.

Tonight is Christmas Eve. As I write this,

Kitty is asleep in a box of wrapping paper and ribbons at my feet. It has taken a month at home for her to be fully integrated into our family. I spent many hours talking to her in a gentle voice, stroking her as I talked so I was able to gain confidence. We gradually introduced her to the other cats in our family, one at a time. She has fit in beautifully and is happy and thriving. Someone once told me I could not save every cat in the world, but this Christmas I saved just one and Kitty is my favorite gift of all.

tating to all of us. I guess we all expect them to just walk up the driveway."

Mr. Chen encouraged Mr. Steen to teach at the university, which he did for a short time. The Chens also owned rental properties and helped the Steens with real estate questions.

"She was just the best. Just the greatest neighbor," Ms. Steen said. "They just loved to go down to the Cape - Mashpee - where they had a home on the ocean."

The neighbors had a baby shower for Mrs. Chen when the couple adopted Ahn-Ahn from Taiwan six years ago, Ms. Jackson said. She said Ahn-Ahn "loved life," and took karate, swimming and piano lessons.

"He was just adorable," she said.

Ahn-Ahn's photo was on the front page of the Townsman in October, when he became an American citizen.

Students at Sanborn were told of their schoolmate's death at an all-school assembly Wednesday morning. Students were able to discuss their fears and their confusion with the school adjustment counselor and their home-room teachers in follow-up sessions.

"We told them it's OK to cry, feel confused and be afraid," said Marjorie Recinos, Ahn-Ahn's first-grade teacher.

He was an "enthusiastic and delightful child who will be sorely missed," Ms. Recinos said. Ahn-Ahn was well liked by his classmates and "he was everybody's friend."

In addition to his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. Chen's relatives include two nephews here in Andover, Kenneth, and Gary Chen; two sisters in Houston, Texas; one brother and his parents, all of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Chen's relatives include her parents, a sister, a niece and a nephew, all of Taiwan.

The bodies of all three members are still in Mexico and funeral arrangements are incomplete.

The Townsman will run obituaries of the Chens next week.

Warriors shut out Wildcats, 3-0, on ice

By Rick Harrison

After sitting out two games with pneumonia, Andover High hockey team sophomore forward Dan Hansberry returned to the lineup against Wilmington and immediately made his presence felt.

Hansberry, who authored a hat trick earlier this season against Beverly, scored the game-winning goal and set up an insurance marker as the Golden Warriors opened their Merrimack Valley Conference season by shutting out the Wildcats 3-0 at Merrimack College's Volpe Complex.

"Let's just say Danny was a welcome addition," said Coach Bill Cullen.

Hansberry's all-sophomore line accounted for all the scoring in the game, center Scott Sullivan and Todd Thistle adding one goal and one assist apiece.

That triumph, coupled with a hard-fought 7-4 non-league decision over North Andover, kept the high-flying locals undefeated with a 5-0-1 overall record.

The Warrior skaters returned to the ice last night against Dracut (4-1-0) at Lowell's Janas Rink, and get their stiffest test of the season Saturday against defending MVC Small School Division champ Methuen which is off to a fast 5-1-2 start itself (undefeated through last seven games).

The Methuen game has a 5:30 p.m. faceoff at the Methuen High rink.

Freshman Chris Cullen and junior Bob Daley continue to lead the team in scoring through six games, Cullen with 14 points on eight goals, six assists and Daley with 12 on six goals, six assists.

Wilmington, 3-0
This opponent will always carry a little extra emotion for Coach Cullen, who directed the Wilmington High hockey fortunes for 16 years before switching to his hometown school last year.

He coached many of the Wildcat seniors two seasons ago when they were sophomores, including tough-to-beat goaltender Bob Lesko who was a second-team MVC All-Star last winter.

"Bobby's a tough kid to get the puck past, so I was pleased we scored three against him," noted Cullen.

Lesko finished with 28 saves, while Andover sophomore Peter Afarian made 11 stops en route to the Warriors second shutout in three games. Andover finished with a wide 31-11 overall shots-on-goal advantage.

The loss was the third straight for Wilmington after three season-opening victories.

Danny Hansberry broke a scoreless tie at 2:58 of the second period, netting his fourth goal of the campaign with assists to Scott Sullivan and Todd Thistle.

Sullivan's unassisted goal at 11:09 made it 2-0.

"Scott scored off the faceoff," said Coach Cullen. "He outmuscled the Wilmington center in the circle, skated in a couple strides and beat (Lesko)."

Thistle scored the only goal of the third period with an assist to Hansberry, who hit him in full stride at the red line with a long breakaway pass.

"I don't want to give away any secrets, but Bobby (Lesko) has a few tendencies I told the kids to watch for," explained Coach Cullen. "Todd picked up on one of them and let's just say he scored by getting the shot off quickly."

Andover's entire defensive corps once again played a strong game.

Andover, 7-4

The Golden Warriors overcame a 3-2 deficit with consecutive goals by freshman Chris Cullen, Co-Captain Justin Hesenius and sophomore Scott Sullivan in the final nine minutes of the second period en route to the victory over North Andover at Merrimack College.

The Scarlet Knights took three one-goal leads during the first half of the game, but each time Andover scrambled back to tie before the key burst in the middle period put the locals in the driver's seat.

Chris Cullen led six AHS players into the goalscoring column with his seventh and eighth of the season, while solo marksmen were senior defenseman Hesenius, Sullivan, junior center Marc Escott with his first varsity goal, sophomore Todd Thistle and Junior Gold Line center Bob Daley.

North Andover's Scott Cloutier and Cullen traded first-period goals as the teams skated to a 1-1 tie.

Ben Nassar put the Scarlet Knights back on top at 1:10 of the middle session, Escott squared things just 94 seconds later, and Cloutier's unassisted goal 73 seconds thereafter put NA on top for the third time.

Cullen made it 3-3 at the 6:44 mark, Hesenius connected at 9:46 and Sullivan's goal with 45 seconds left in the stanza proved to be the game-winner.

Thistle boosted the winners' lead to 6-3 with less than five minutes in the game, Nassar delivered his second NA goal on a power play at 13:53, and Daley's unassisted tally with 23 seconds left provided the final insurance.

Passing out one assist each for the Golden Warriors were freshman forward Eddie Seero, sophomore forward Dana DiFiore, freshman defenseman Jeff Hesenius, Justin Hesenius, Daley, Cullen, Thistle and Sullivan.

Andover finished with a huge 57-20 shooting edge over North

AHS girls' gymnastics coach not discouraged

By Rick Harrison

The graduation of three top performers and injuries to several prominent returners have not dampened the spirit of Andover High girls' gymnastics Coach Julie Curtis.

Far from being discouraged, Coach Curtis instead is trumpeting a possible repeat of last year when the Lady Warriors went undefeated in dual meets (9-0-0), won the Merrimack Valley Conference championship and placed third in both the Eastern Mass. North Sectional and All-State Meets.

The 1993 season opener is tonight at Dracut (7 p.m.), and the first home meet is scheduled for next Tuesday when Chelmsford comes to town (3:30 p.m.).

There will be seven league meets and a single non-leaguer Feb. 4 at home against Danvers (7 p.m.).

First the bad news.

Gone through graduation are top guns and consistent scorers Kasie Kearins (University of New Hampshire), Tania Pierce (Penn State) and Sarah Faraci (Tulane). Pierce and Faraci were four-year standouts and K.K. a three-year star.

Sidelined with back injuries are sophomores Marcie Lutsch and Lisa Cincotta, Lutsch suffering from a herniated disc and Cincotta from a fractured vertebrae.

Lutsch was virtually unbeatable in dual meet all-around competition last winter, and placed in both the Sectional and State Meets.

"Marcie hasn't competed since April of last year," said Coach Curtis. "She's working out with us, and I hope to slip her in for a routine here and there. She can do the light stuff, like floor exercise dances, but she can't tumble. It would be nice to have Marcie for balance beam and floor, but vaulting and uneven bars are pretty much out.

"Lisa, another potential all-around, was just fitted for a back brace and won't be available for much this season," said Coach Curtis.

Now for the good news.

Ten veterans return from last year's undefeated squad, with senior Co-Captains Anne Milmoie and Amanda Schaake leading the way. Both are all-around performers, Milmoie most proficient on beam and floor and Schaake on beam and vault.

Other potential all-rounders are junior Stacy Thresher and sophomore Irene Shui, Thresher tops on beam and floor and Shui on beam, floor and vault.

Newcomers among the team's 21 members are junior Alison Georgian (floor, vault), who is also the area's No. 1 girls tennis player, sophomores Eveline Yang (all-around), Lisa Zenofsky (floor) and Kara Brady (vault, floor) and freshmen Missy Famiglietti (all-around), Jessica Derby (floor, vault), Kaye Brady (floor), Kristin Brady (floor) and Amanda McCormack (floor, vault).

Andover's Brady Bunch is actually two separate families. Kerry and Kirstin are sisters, as are Kara and Kaye.

"I believe we have the talent and depth, despite the injuries, to go undefeated again," said Coach Curtis, who begins her fifth year with the AHS program and third as head honcho. "Beam and floor should be our strongest events, while bars looks like the weakest.

"I still think we can break the 130-point barrier (Andover topped 130 seven times last year including a school record 136.40 against Methuen).

"Our biggest problem may be consistency. Last year we knew Kasie, Tania and Marcie would hit (their routines) every time out, but it may take a few meets for the younger kids to get that type of consistency," noted Coach Curtis.

In the Conference the main stumbling blocks to an Andover repeat championship should be traditional power Dracut and Methuen.

The Middies graduated Tammy Noel, Paula Cronk and saw the retirement of Coach Reg Walker, while Methuen is once again led by Robin Beeley.

Statewide powers would appear to be Peabody, which returns Jana Reardon and has already scored 136 points in a dual meet, Wellesley and Acton-Boxboro. Two-time defending State champ Beverly should be hard-pressed to pull off a three-peat.

Strength lies in floor exercise, vaulting, rings for boys

By Rick Harrison

Last year was a learning experience for an Andover High boys' gymnastics team dominated by underclassmen.

This winter, with everyone a year older and presumably wiser, the Golden Warriors hope to make some noise at both the local and state levels.

"We're pushing to qualify for the (six-team) State Meet this year," said Coach Steve Sirois, who begins his lucky 13th season at the AHS helm. "We have the numbers to do it, and the kids seem committed to giving it a serious try.

"Our strength should be in floor exercise, vaulting and on the rings, while we need more consistency on the high bar and parallel bars."

Dropping by at several vacation-week practices to work out and offer support were former AHS gymnastics standouts Jason Fox (1991 graduate), Tony Cioffi ('85), Steve Buscema ('84) and "old-timer" Lou Trumborg ('66). Fox was recently rewarded for his hard work with a full scholarship at UMass-Amherst.

The key graduates from last year's team were Seth Desrosiers (University of Maine) and Matt McClune (University of Rhode Island).

The 23-man 1993 squad will be headed by senior Co-Captains Tadg Corkery (pommel horse, vault, parallel bars) and Andy DeBenedictis (pommel horse, rings), along with sophomore Scott Nicholson (rings, parallel bars, high bar).

Nicholson was third on the rings at last year's All-State Meet after placing first in the event at the North Shore League Championship Meet.

Other top veterans include junior Joe Shea (pommel horse, parallel bars), sophomore all-around Bob Ellis, junior Rich Green (rings, high bar, parallel bars) and sophomore Jeff Arsenault (floor, vault, high bars).

Shea is the defending league champ on the horse while Ellis, Green and Arsenault were medalists in the league meet.

'We're pushing to qualify for the (six-team) State Meet this year.'

Boys' track remains undefeated; girls' drop close decision

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High boys' indoor track team remained undefeated with a 52-34 romp over Central Catholic, while the girls dropped a close 46-40 decision to Masconomet Regional of Topsfield in Merrimack Valley Conference dual meet action this week at the Methuen High Field House.

The AHS boys remained tied for first place with a 3-0-0 record, while Central Catholic (2-1-0) suffered its first loss.

On the girls' side it was Masco that improved to 3-0-0 while the Lady Warriors fell to 2-1-0 overall.

Saturday morning the Boys Northern Area Freshman-Sophomore Meet is scheduled at the Lowell High Field House (10 a.m.), while Sunday at 12 noon the Boys State Coaches Invitational will be held at Harvard University's Gordon Cage.

Next Monday Coach Art Iworsley's Andover teams return to MVC dual meet action against North Andover (3:30 p.m., Methuen), and Wednesday both teams travel crosstown for a non-league meet against powerful Phillips Academy.

Andover boys, 52-34

The Golden Warriors keyed their triumph over Central by scoring 20 of a possible 27 points in the distance races and 12 of a possible 18 in the field events (32-13 overall edge).

First-place finishes were registered by Josh Nelken in the 300 yard dash (36.1), Colin Arsenault in the 600 run (1:19.7), Matt Ely in the 1000 run (2:33.1), Brian Twomey in the mile (4:47.6), Max Dawson in the two-mile (10:42.2) and Steve Shepard in the high jump (5'10").

Nelken emerged from the unseeded heat to win the 300 in a personal-best time, edging junior teammate Rob Weisman whose second place clocking of 36.2 was also a personal best.

Other runners-up were hurdler Eric Fox (personal-best 7.2), sprinter Rocket Rod Lumley in the 50 dash with a personal-best 5.7, sophomore two-miler Mark Adams with a personal-best 10:55.2, shot putter J.P. Ciruso (43'6") and sophomore high jumper Jon Hall (5'6").

Shepard added a third place in the 50 dash (5.8), while other thirds went to junior Doug Edmonds in the 1000 run (personal-best five seconds 2:35.6), sophomore miler Chad Collins (5:05.0) and shot putter Sean O'Leary (41'10").

The shot put competition was won by Central Catholic's Ryan Hanson (44'9"), an Andover resident and longtime teammate/adversary of Ciruso who formerly attended Central.

Masconomet girls, 46-40

The Lady Warriors managed just three first place finishes, but still made it close with six seconds and seven thirds.

"Masconomet is basically a senior team and they just had too many outstanding athletes," said Coach Iworsley. "They have an excellent shot at winning the league this year."

Captain Amanda Holmes led an Andover sweep of the mile with a 5:56.7 clocking, while juniors Leigh Clarke (6:11.5) and Madhavi Reddy (6:25.9) placed 2-3.

The only other AHS individual victory, however, came from sophomore sprinter Jamie Barron with a personal-best 6.5 in the 50 dash.

The locals' othrid win came in the mile relay where Captain Jen Batts, sophomore Amy Levesque, junior Stacey Lavoie and junior Sarah Witman ran a 4:44.1.

Contributing second place finishes were Lavoie with a personal-best 42.3 in the 300, Witman in the 600 run (1:36.8), Heather Holmender in the 1000 run (personal-best 3:04.8), Captain Ellen Sullivan in the deuce (12:51.0) and Suzanne Doucette in the shot put (25'10").

Sophomore Rebecca Goldenberg grabbed a pair of thirds with a personal-best 8.3 in the hurdles and 4'6" in the high jump.

Other third places were secured by sophomore Melissa Gould in the 50 dash (6.7), Levesque and Kim Young who tied in the 300 with personal-best 42.6 clockings, Batts in the 600 run (1:43.3) and Tricia McNeice in the 1000 run (3:20.0).

Girls' hoop Coach Sullivan: 'It's always nice to beat Methuen'

By Rick Harrison

As Coach George Sullivan noted: "It's always nice to beat Methuen."

The Andover High girls basketball team did just that last week, giving itself a big confidence boost and finishing fifth in the eight-team Greater Lawrence Christmas Festival by edging traditional nemesis Methuen 41-35 in the tourney's final round at the Dunn Gymnasium.

The Rangers have been tough on Andover over the years, knocking the locals out of the Eastern Mass. Tournament several times, but the Lady Warriors have now won the last two meetings (59-53 last year) and are beginning to even things out.

"There's a big rivalry in this sport between both the kids and the coaches," said Sullivan, referring to veteran Rangers' skipper Mimi Hyde-Stott. "And, despite the fact this may not be one of Methuen's best teams, they're still much better than Mimi is saying (3-3 thus far)."

"We continue to improve every time out. I'm pleased with our consistent development. The girls set goals for themselves every game, in terms of rebounds or assists or points, and we're beginning to achieve a lot of them."

"Holding Methuen to 35 points is impressive. I think Andover has always been known for its hard-nosed defense, and Methuen had scored 70 points against Billerica, 60 against Dracut and in the high 50's against Haverhill (defending State Division I champion)," noted Coach Sullivan.

The triumph, which boosted the Lady Warriors to 3-2 overall, was also a positive note on which to enter a busy week.

Andover returned to Merrimack Valley Conference play Tuesday night at Greater Lowell Tournament champion Billerica (3-3 overall).

Tomorrow night Andover is at Dracut (6 p.m.), and the locals complete a three-on-the-road stretch with a non-league game at North Andover on Saturday night (7:30 p.m.).

The next home game is Tuesday night against Chelmsford (6 p.m.), beginning a string of three straight and eight of nine at the Dunn Gymnasium.

The lead changed hands several times in a see-saw first half, which ended with Andover on top by one point, 21-20.

Kerry Hagerly netted eight points in the half, Marcia Gemmell added five and Lindsey Sweeney scored the team's first three-pointer of the season.

The Lady Warriors never trailed in the second half, but neither were they able to shake the pesky Rangers.

Andover, which left the ice with a 2-3-0 overall record. The Warriors may have established a new school record when they fired 30 shots on the Knights' net in the second period.

Junior Phil Smith and sophomore Peter Afarian split the goaltending duties for AHS, combining for 16 saves, while busy North Andover netminder Rich Lambert was credited with 50 stops.

"North Andover kept playing hard, and a lot of credit should be given to their goaltender for keeping it close," said Coach Cullen.

Felt in control

"It was one of those games where I felt we were in control, but they were still close enough that anything could have happened," explained Coach Sullivan. "Our shot selection was good, but we were missing a lot of high-percentage shots."

"We took away their fast break by keeping Lindsey (Sweeney) back. She was picking off their long passes."

"We did get in some foul trouble towards the end but it didn't effect us too much."

Senior Co-Captain Kerry Hagerty scored her average with a game-high 17 points.

Senior forward Marcia Gemmell added eight points, Co-Captain Lindsey Sweeney seven, senior guard Tara Griffin four, senior center Beth Everett three and sophomore forward Leah Mason two points.

The versatile Hagerty added 13 rebounds and 10 defensive plusses. "She was all over the floor, as usual," noted Coach Sullivan.

Everett pulled down 10 rebounds, Mason and Gemmell seven boards apiece, Sweeney added nine steals and five assists, and senior forward Erinne Sullivan had five defensive plusses.

"Marcia Gemmell is playing with a lot of heart," said Coach Sullivan. "She's a hard worker and an over-achiever. I think her work ethic carries over from her daily life, where she spends three mornings a week waitressing in addition to going to school and playing sports."

"Beth Everett is doing great for someone who sat out a whole year. She's getting her timing and basketball savvy back. Tara Griffin, Leah Mason and Erinne Sullivan have been the defensive experts. The girls are beginning to mesh together well as a unit."

Andover opened the tournament with a tough 47-45 loss to Salem N.H., but then bounced back to beat Lawrence (66-52) and Methuen.

Hagerty All-Star

Kerry Hagerty was named to the exclusive five-player All-Tournament Team, and Lindsey Sweeney was the recipient of Andover's Coaches Award for the tourney.

Hagerty scored 48 points in the Lady Warriors' three tournament games, Sweeney added 31, Gemmell 28, Everett 15, Griffin 14 and Mason 10.

AHS boys' hoop team is the one to watch

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High boys' basketball team officially established itself as an Eastern Mass. Division I team to watch, the Golden Warriors legitimizing their claim to fame with an impressive 73-61 non-league victory over visiting New Bedford High.

The previously-undefeated Whalers had won five straight to start the season, while Andover improved to 5-1 with the triumph over the South Shore powerhouse.

"This is a great win for our program," said Coach Dave Fazio. "New Bedford is an outstanding team. They were coming off victories over two top teams from Connecticut and Rhode Island.

"I think we may have caught them when they weren't quite ready for us. They may have thought we were just a suburban team that wouldn't give them a tough time. But you have to respect every opponent. We learned that the hard way in the Christmas Tournament when we took North Andover too lightly.

"New Bedford is much better than what they showed against us, and their coach told me after the game they'd have to use this as a learning experience," noted Coach Fazio.

Of course, Fazio and his Andover teams have pulled off a few other shocks the past three years. A top-ranked and undefeated Everett team, 16-0 at the time, was stunned three years ago and last spring the Warriors pulled major tournament upsets against Salem and Cambridge Rindge & Latins.

"We've snuck up on a few good teams since I've been here," agreed Coach Fazio.

Andover, which should invade the Eastern Mass. Division I Top 20 rankings after beating New Bedford, returned to Merrimack Valley Conference play Tuesday night against Billerica and tomorrow night the Warriors will be at Dracut (7:45 p.m. tapoff).

Billerica entered the Andover game winless (0-5), while Dracut carries some extra significance for Coach Fazio who launched his varsity hoop coaching career with the Middies.

New Bedford will get a chance to avenge its defeat on Feb. 2 when Andover travels to face the Whalers in New Bedford.

Senior 6'1" Michigan transfer student Mike Roberts continues to impress with his scoring and ball distribution prowess, averaging 21.5 points and six assists per game. He is 31-for-57 from two-point range (54 percent), 11-for-25 from treyland (44 percent) and 32-for-38 at the free throw line (84 percent). He had 129 points and 36 assists through six games.

Sophomore Eric Danis is 37-for-66 from the floor (56 percent), and his 54 rebounds give him a 9.0 average per game.

Junior guard Kirk Stockwood has yet to miss a foul shot this season (10-for-10).

Roberts was named to the five-man Greater Lawrence Christmas Festival All-Tournament team, while senior Tri-Captain Dave Gardner received Andover's Coaches Award at the tournament.

In addition to the victory over New Bedford, Andover wrapped up a 2-1 Christmas Festival showing with a 59-46 romp over Salem N.H. That victory nailed down third place in the eight-team tournament, which was won by Central Catholic in an exciting final against North Andover.

Andover, 73-61

The Golden Warriors inched ahead by two points at halftime, 32-30, and slowly pulled away from New Bedford in the second half of their classic confrontation at the Dunn Gymnasium.

"Kids like Roberts, Stockwood and Danis, who play ball all the time, raise their game to a different level against a team like New Bedford," said Coach Fazio. "They really get charged up.

"Mike (Roberts) is extremely good in the open floor. He sees the whole court and knows exactly when to shoot and when to give the ball up.

"We were still down after the loss to North Andover, and the kids realized how big a ballgame New Bedford had become for us. We've taken the approach of scheduling the best non-league opponents we can find (Everett, Somerville, New Bedford in recent years) because we know our kids are talented and we want the challenge," said Coach Fazio. "Some people think we're crazy to do it, but it's great preparation for the tournament."

The Golden Warriors blitzed the Whalers by shooting a blistering 60 percent from the floor (25-for-41) and 87 percent from the free throw line (20-for-23).

"They love to run," said Coach Fazio, "and that didn't bother us at all because so do we. New Bedford pressed us all over the place, but we only had 12 turnovers the entire game. That's remarkable considering the pace we were going at.

"They tried to catch us off guard and score some easy points off the pressure. But we really moved the ball, and once we broke through the initial press we ended up with a lot of 2-on-1 and 3-on-2 situations for easy shots."

Andover built the halftime lead to 14 points after holding New Bedford to 14 points in the first 13 minutes of the second half.

"But they hit three straight three-pointers and got the lead down to four with about three minutes to play," noted Coach Fazio. "We handled the pressure of the comeback, however, and made our free throws down the stretch to pull away again."

Roberts finished a monster game with 28 points, nine rebounds and four assists, hitting 9-of-11 from the floor and 7-of-9 at the line.

Eric Danis contributed 15 points, nine rebounds, three assists and three steals, going 5-for-12 from the floor and 5-for-6 at the line.

Kirk Stockwood added 12 points and four assists, finishing 5-for-9 from the floor and 2-for-2 at the stripe. Stockwood also did a spectacular defensive job on New Bedford top scorer Marcus Wells, totally frustrating him and holding Wells to just six points.

Mark Lastrina pocketed 10 points and didn't have a turnover while acting as a major press-breaker.

Sophomore guard Tom Tanin had six points (2-for-3 field, 2-for-2 line) and three assists, and Dave Gardner tossed in two points.

"I think they'll look at us a little differently when we go down there in February," stated Coach Fazio.

Andover, 59-46

The Golden Warriors bounced back from a lackluster performance against North Andover in the semifinal round of the tournament, dominating Salem N.H. from the outset en route to their third place finish at Merrimack College.

Mike Roberts was instrumental in Andover's game-opening 11-0 run, and he went on to finish the contest with 21 points and nine assists as the Michigan transfer continued to stake his claim as one of the top players in Eastern Massachusetts.

Two other Warriors players slipped into double figures, as usual, sophomore skywalker Eric Danis tossing through 15 points and junior guard/Tri-Captain Kirk Stockwood contributing 13 including his fifth three-pointer.

Senior forward/Tri-Captain Mark Lastrina pumped through eight points, and single free throws were converted by sophomore forward Matt Gibson and sophomore guard Tom Tanin.

Danis had six rebounds, Lastrina five and Stockwood three assists.

Andover's 11-0 start was stretched to a 12-point 32-20 lead by halftime, and the winners traded baskets with Salem in a 27-26 second half.

The lone player in double figures for Salem was Chris Hatem, whose father Bob is the Andover boys varsity assistant. The younger Hatem tossed in 13 points for the Blue Devils.

"Every player on our team was involved in the game," said Coach Fazio. "It was over pretty early. Everyone had seen action by halftime and we did pretty much what we wanted."

Diana Newton and Mike Cook with new Audi 90

Park Porsche & Audi, Inc.

The fourth generation of the luxurious European Audi automobile ushers in an era of unprecedented driver control, comfort and automotive design efficiency. The Audi 90S and 90CS is an even-tempered car that advances the industry's standard for driver assurance and control in virtually all situations. It handles like a sports sedan and sacrifices nothing of the comfort and safety that its size and weight imply.

The Audi 90S and 90CS are equipped with drivers' side air bags that work with a seat belt tensioning system, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration tests found Audi's overall crash test index the best of any new car available today. The 1993 Audi is completely redesigned.

Since 1932, Audi has been in the forefront of front wheel and all-wheel drive engineering. The V6 engine is more powerful and there is no hesitation in acceleration. As usual, Audi has lease and financing specials all the time, so check with Mike Cook or Diana Newton for details.

Porsche has established its reputation for performance, safety and dependability as a racing car. This luxury car "makes a statement." The quick, exquisitely refined, agile and sophisticated Porsche's form always follows function.

Park Porsche and Audi, Inc. has served the Merrimack Valley for over 30 years. The main reason for their longevity is satisfied repeat customers and referrals. The employees are known for their stability and integrity. New sugar rules have been announced by the rationing board. The board reminds Andover residents possessing War Ration Book 1 that the weight value of Stamp No. 10 has been set at three pounds. The value period of the stamp is from December 16 to January 31.

In a telegram from the War Department last Thursday morning, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Gauthier of 4 Ferndale avenue, Shawsheen, were informed of the death of their son, Private Arthur J. Gauthier, 24, in recent South Pacific engagements of the Marine Corps.

Pvt. Gauthier was the first Andover resident to be killed in action in the present war, though the town's roll of honor already bore three names before his passing.

Pvt. Gauthier had been in the Marine Corps for about eleven months. His preliminary training was at San Diego, Calif., but he had been in the battle area since late May.

What does it take in effort and materials to keep a mobile society moving when Mother Nature dumps the kind of snow she released here last Friday and again on New Year's Eve?

Highway Supt. Stanley Chlebowski reported late Tuesday that the department of public works had distributed approximately 200 tons of salt and 2,000 tons of sand in the process of clearing Andover streets following the major storm on Thursday and the lesser snow that came late Sunday.

Following the first storm the DPW crews plowed for 28 uninterrupted hours and sanded for the next 10 to 12. On New Year's Eve the trucks began to roll again at 9 p.m. and worked through the night.

School Committee and Andover Education Assn. negotiators are expected to meet Wednesday in a further attempt to reconcile differences that have deadlocked 1968 contract talks.

On Friday some 100 of the AEA's 191 members met to unanimously reject the School Committee's latest proposal - that the teachers accept a new salary schedule and forget about further negotiations on association proposals that have to do with working conditions. The schedule offered was based on a $6,200 minimum and a $6,900 maximum for teachers holding bachelor's degrees. That is a $600 increase over this year's minimum.

The AEA has charged that the School Committee attempted to "buy them off." Its president, High School teacher Joan Lynch, said this week ... "it cannot be done."

Andover selectmen will meet with consulting engineers from Camp, Dresser & McKee on Monday to get a clearer picture of just what sort of problems Andover would face if it were to decide to build a facility of its own for purification of sewage released into the Merrimack River.

Town Manager Richard Bowen advised the School Committee this week that it should not plan on beginning "educational use" of the new senior high school before Feb. 1, roughly six weeks later than the contractor promised to have the building ready for occupancy.

Even before this official notification was received, High School Principal Philip Wormwood had canceled plans for ending the high school semester Dec. 15, and rescheduled the start of exam week for Jan. 15.

The selectmen will hold a public hearing on two Lovejoy Road dogs during a regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday night at Town Hall.

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony said there have been a number of reports that the dogs are unlicensed and often unleashed. Next week's hearing has been called because the dogs are now believed to have killed another dog.

The unseasonably warm weather we've been enjoying lately may have lulled us into complacency, but it is now winter—and the snows are bound to hit one of these days.

A reminder for when the white stuff arrives: property owners, tenants or occupants of buildings on land bordering any street or in the way where there is a sidewalk or canopy must clear the snow from sidewalks or canopy within 24 hours after the snowfall has stopped.

This town regulation is of particular interest to merchants, businesses and homeowners whose property is located in busy downtown areas.

Political signs . . .

Town planners will discuss the possible amendments to the zoning or general bylaws with Mr. Urbelis during the board's meeting this Tuesday night, Jan. 12, at town offices.

The proposals relate to the kinds of signs allowed, particularly during political elections, but would really only clarify the town's current enforcement practices, Mr. Urbelis said.

"I'm not sure the practice is going to change at all," Mr. Urbelis said Tuesday. "I don't think we're trying to ban any political signs. What we're trying to do is clean up what will be allowed."

The current bylaw is full of ambiguities, he said. One reading of the current bylaw would disallow political signs on all private property, but would not be enforceable, he said.

"We're trying to get something that is enforceable," he said. "It's more of a housekeeping matter, I think."

The only mention of political signs at all in the bylaws is in the general bylaw, Article XII, Sect. 10b, which says posters or signs, "whether for political purposes" or not, cannot be affixed on town property. The zoning bylaw lists signs allowed and not allowed, but does not mention political signs. The exclusion can be interpreted as such signs not being allowed, according to town counsel and Laura Hill, the town planner who is working on the bylaw change with Mr. Urbelis.

That interpretation has been challenged in other towns and been beaten in court, which is why town counsel is recommending the bylaw address the issue more clearly.

The proposals being discussed would regulate "time, manner and place" of all kinds of signs, not just political signs, according to Ms. Hill. The town is not allowed to regulate content of signs.

The proposal would be that "temporary signs pertaining to a candidate or ballot question ... require no permit and shall be allowed in all zoning districts."

Signs would:

- Only be permitted on private property;
- Not exceed six square feet in area per sign, and not exceed in aggregate 24 square feet in area per lot;
- Not be higher than three feet above ground level;
- Be erected no sooner than 30 days prior to the date of election and removed within three days afterward;
- Be stationary and not illuminated.

The amendment would also address signs that deal with issues, such as a stance on nuclear energy or abortion. Those signs would be allowed without a limitation on duration, but all other criteria would apply.

Mr. Urbelis and planners will have to decide whether the amendment should be proposed for the zoning or general bylaw, but either one would still require town meeting approval.

Rose Glen Dairy to reopen Owner probably to sell by month's end

By Don Staruk

Doug Adams, owner of Rose Glen Dairy on Andover Street, said Tuesday night that the business is only closed temporarily, not for good as rumors would have it, but may also be changing hands.

The business has been closed since Christmas and may remain closed the rest of this month, Mr. Adams said.

"I simply closed it for my own purposes for a vacation," Mr. Adams said, adding that this is his slowest time of the year. "I am also in the process of selling it. It looks as though it will probably go through by the end of the month."

Mr. Adams said he was not at liberty to name the potential buyers, but did say they are locals.

"They come from the area. They're very familiar with it and are anxious to get going with it," he said. "Even if these people don't buy it, it's going to reopen."

Mr. Adams has had plans to sell the business since spring when his lease was up and he swapped locations with John's Village Deli, he said.

History of Rose Glen Dairy

Rose Glen Dairy closed its doors at 5 Andover St. March 1 after 35 years in that location and moved to its new space at 32 Andover St. in April, the former location of John's Village Deli.

"I simply closed it for my own purposes for a vacation. I am also in the process of selling it. It looks as though it will probably go through by the end of the month."

The deli moved into the Rose Glen Dairy spot.

The picnic tables that were at the duck pond belonged to Mr. Adams and were moved to the new location. The wholesale ice cream operation was discontinued. Mr. Adams has owned the dairy for 16 years.

The store was originally an extension of Sid White's Wild Rose Dairy Farm, located off Lowell Street, where the Wild Rose Drive housing development is now and across from Andover Animal Hospital. Mr. White also owned the land on Andover Street and opened the ice cream store there 35 years ago. The Rose Glen Dairy building was the dairy plant of the farm. The white barn next door was the cow barn, according to Mr. Adams.

Using technology to explore uncharted worlds

By Tina Mosca

I stepped into his foyer.

Feeling nearly as uninformed as a fly headed straight for the eye of a black widow's web, I greeted Martin Klein — the inventor — I had set out to interview.

"OK, think 'high tech'," I reassured myself. "Be eager and inquisitive, even though you don't know a darned thing about sonar."

He guided me upstairs to his office, sat me down in a sun-kissed chair, and — with little hesitation — began delivering the details of his life as a creator.

After tuning into Mr. Klein for a minute or so, it became evident that I wouldn't have to worry about asking questions. He was in his element and, like proud parents showing off a newborn, he would need little if any prodding. So I relaxed, pricked up my ears, and began scribbling furiously.

Mr. Klein's passion for inventing reaches further back than he can remember.

"Sometimes I think I was born with a pocketknife and a screwdriver," he explained. Growing up in New York meant exposure to the most innovative technological discoveries. "There was a section in New York where you could buy radio parts and gadgets. As a teenager I built electronic devices, service TVs and radios."

When he was 16 years old, Mr. Klein wrote an article for Radio Electronics Magazine. He remembered "presenting it to the editor" and being asked, "Did your father write this?...and I was insulted!"

One might wonder where and from whom he learned the intricacies of those "electronic devices" he was constantly toying with. "My father was an inventive person. I learned from my family and went to a good high school," said Mr. Klein, who now has two children, an 11-year-old daughter and a 15-year-old son.

After high school he attended MIT, "where I ran an electronic shop in my dormitory."

As it happened, in his senior year he became acquainted with Harold Edgerton, the inventor of the strobe light and "one of the world's greatest inventors. I became a sort of student and protégé of his. Harold was a friend of Jacques Cousteau."

Mr. Klein designed the 'mud penetrator', a device consisting of cameras and strobe lights, which allowed Mr. Cousteau to explore seven miles below the ocean's surface "using sound waves to look through sediment under the ocean."

That was in 1962, when, he explained, "transistors were new. I learned how to use transistors properly." It was also the year he was appointed the head of sonar development at EG&G, Mr. Edgerton's company.

Sonar, according to Mr. Klein, is defined as sound navigation and ranging. Usually research of sonar is "spurred by either wars or disasters," the sinking of the Titanic, for instance, or the running aground of the Queen Elizabeth off Cape Cod.

In 1963 the submarine Thresher sank in 8400 feet of water off the Atlantic.

To facilitate the search for the Thresher Mr. Klein helped build a side scan sonar, a diving and research submersible unit.

With the heightened curiosity in sonar he "saw the shortcomings of the interests we had. We developed a much more sophisticated side scan sonar, which was able to make clearer pictures of the ocean floor and objects on the ocean floor."

These new, improved sonars were used for a number of important underwater finds such as the recovery of the Mary Rose, a famous British warship from Henry VIII's fleet. Involved in this 1967 exhibition was a youthful Prince Charles.

Eventually, in January 1968, Mr. Klein left EG&G and founded his own business, "starting out in the basement of a rented home in Lexington."

Then, in 1983 he moved his business and re-established it as Klein Associates Inc. in Salem, N.H.

"We became the world leader in developing side scan sonar and related products for ocean exploration," he volunteered. "We had customers all over the world and won a variety of awards," among them, the esteemed President's Excellence in Exports award. Mr. Klein was named deemed the Small Businessperson of the Year in New Hampshire for 1983.

His company's sonar equipment was used to explore many famous shipwrecks, including treasure ships off the Florida coast, and the Lusitania.

"Two ships from the War of 1812 in Lake Ontario, the Scourge and the Hamilton, were found with our equipment." It also helped uncover the remains of the space shuttle Challenger, as well as debris from a number of plane crashes.

With the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, Klein Associates Inc. helped locate the Titanic. "The equipment was also used for military purposes, including finding mines in the Persian Gulf," he said.

About three years ago, even though his business had achieved a high level of success, Mr. Klein opted to sell it. Now, he works as a private consultant for companies in the oceanographic field and, he pointed out, "I also try to help other entrepreneurs and small-business people."

A member of advisory boards at both UNH and MIT, he noted, "at MIT they are starting a new Edgerton Center, where I hope to get involved, to be a mentor to students in this field."

About the years to come, "I still feel there is an important future in ocean exploration. Much of the ocean and lakes and rivers have never been explored in detail. There are still many discoveries to make and many resources to be found. It's a very exciting field because in working with the ocean you need many disciplines."

Some of the disciplines in which Mr. Klein must be up to date to excel in his business are electronics, acoustics, magnetics, hydrodynamics, and computers, to name just a few.

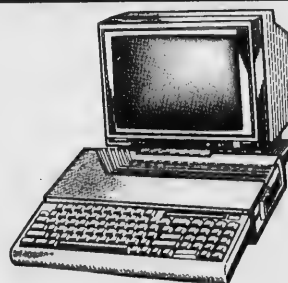

Although he used to travel all over the world to many of the sites where his equipment was being used, he admitted that he spends more time at home these days. The exhibitions that proved to be the most fascinating for Mr. Klein were the recoveries of the Titanic and the Atocha, a treasure galleon off the coast of Florida, and the search for the Loch Ness monster.

"I had certain goals I had to help find," he said. "The first two have been found. I think it's unlikely that there's a monster in Loch Ness. I still think it's a technical challenge to prove or disprove this."

Although presently his equipment is not being used to investigate what really does lurk in the muddy depths of the Loch Ness, he is considering journeying there with it next year in hopes of making a new discovery.

For now, Mr. Klein is content to work in his home, where he takes pleasure in gardening, photography and woodworking in his leisure time.

About the cover:

Technology can be thought of as a refined, technical method to achieve a practical purpose, like using a word processor to write a letter. It is applied science. Technology is the sum total of all the means used to provide objects necessary for human sustenance and comfort — maintaining life, growth, morale. It involves having a specialized and usually practical knowledge, especially of a mechanical or scientific subject. Technologic advances can extend, and improve, the quality of life. The most advanced — in complexity, development, or elaboration, as in these pages — represent a contemporaneous, extending upward, high degree of technology: high tech.

Cover design and layout by Jack Grady.

Computers à la Carte, since its founding as a company in November 1990, has always been interested in emerging trends of technology.

This interest is garnered not just for the sake of seeing the "latest and greatest," but rather so that we might ensure that the use of these new trends can be of benefit to our customers. Sometimes the "latest and greatest" becomes tomorrow's discarded non-standard, and the staff at Computers à la Carte works to assure that this does not happen to its patrons. How many of us remember the 3" floppy drive? How about the Micro Channel Bus? Remember the Lisa, that $10,000 graphic computer from Apple? Some Lisas have recently been offered for sale for under $100. Currently, it seems that the new Pen Computing standard, in which a stylus rather than a keyboard is used for data entry, has become the latest casualty among the new technology trends.

Avoiding these pitfalls, while still being open-minded to new trends, can be a daunting task for an individual or small company. Computers à la Carte has long fostered a company philosophy of assuring that the new XYZ 100Mhz CPU is actually a viable alternative and not a momentarily dazzling, but short-lived phenomenon. We may not have been the first computer company to offer a 486-50Mhz system for sale, but when we did make one available, it was reliable and did not suffer the heat-related failures of earlier models.

With this philosophy in mind, we want to make note of a new trend that has caught our attention. This item is the Photo CD process now being offered by the Kodak Corporation of Rochester, N.Y. Kodak has developed a method of transferring 35mm film or negatives to a compact disc, which is then viewable by a special CD player or by your computer compact disc reader, if you have one. The attraction of this new development is twofold. First is the ability to easily digitize high-quality color pictures; second is the fact that a company as large as Kodak has put its marketing prowess solidly behind the idea, both with an enormous advertising campaign and by making easy and inexpensive availability of the technology.

The Photo CD idea is a fairly simple one (as are most good ideas). Take a roll of snapshots on your 35mm camera and bring them for development to your local Kodak developer. Rather than asking for prints of your film, you request a Photo CD. The cost of the process is averaging about 75 cents per print. Usually in less than a week your negatives come back to the developer along with a compact disc in a box covered with a

Technology goes into all the services Jiffy Lube offers

Jiffy Lube's computer system tracks car maintenance history, national service and parts data

Everyone should be aware of the automotive preventive maintenance services Jiffy Lube has been providing the Merrimack Valley for the past seven years, but you might not be aware of the technology that goes into the services they offer. Everything done at the Jiffy Lube service centers of Lowell, Nashua and Salem is controlled by the JSMART point-of-sale computer system.

Each technician works at a computer work station where key information on your vehicle is entered in. The system then selects for the technician the correct filter, oil weight and any service bulletins that apply to your vehicle. The system also provides you with your vehicle's service intervals for such services as automatic transmission and radiator flush.

Each time you come in to Jiffy Lube you will receive an updated Jiffy Lube service history telling you when you had various services performed and at what mileage. The maintenance of a service history can help if you have a warranty problem with your dealer.

We can, if required, print out for you a duplicate invoice on a past service should you misplace your own copy. The JSMART system will also send you a service reminder notice based on the actual mileage you drive for both the oil change service and transmission service.

The JSMART system is linked to Jiffy Lube's national headquarters, where updates on service and parts information is automatically sent to each service center's computer.

contact sheet, with thumbnail size representations of each of your prints. Your prints are stored on the disc in seven sizes: thumbnail, miniature, wallet, snapshot, standard, large, and poster. Up to 100 prints, in all of these sizes, can be stored on a single compact disc. This may not sound like a tremendous amount until you realize that the poster-sized representation of one print takes 16 MB (or megabytes) of space alone. If you only wish to view these pictures as you would a box of slides, you put the CD into a Kodak Photo CD player and with the provided remote control, view your latest photo masterpieces in brilliant color on your television.

It would be sufficient for the technology to be a success if that were all you could do, but if you have a computer with a CD-ROM drive, the potential uses are legion. Not only can you view these pictures on your computer monitor, but since they are digitized you can actually manipulate the images as well. They can be easily imported into a desktop publishing program for inclusion in your next newsletter; they can also be edited in numerous ways and then exported to other programs to be viewed or printed. Previous methods of digitizing photographic images have resulted in pictures that are less than perfect, while the Kodak Photo CD images are superb 24-bit true color duplicates of your original snapshot. As you can tell, we are excited by this new idea.

Computers à la Carte has a complete multimedia-system setup which includes Kodak Photo CD capability, and we are expecting to receive our own Photo CD player soon. We have had two rolls of film taken and transferred to a Photo CD and are learning of new uses for this technology daily. Come in to the store, at 190 Hampshire St. in Lawrence, for a demonstration of this exciting new technology.

COMPUTER POWER. Another Jiffy Lube Advantage

The new Jiffy Lube computerized tracking system maintains a complete service history on your vehicle. Our records help protect new vehicle warranties. We even send a reminder card when your next fluid service is due. Computer power is another way Jiffy Lube is committed to your total satisfaction.

Mercedes has commitment to push out bounds of technology

The Mercedes-Benz 300 Class automobiles offer a variety of features and each model includes all the traditional values one comes to expect from Mercedes-Benz. Each model is designed to satisfy a broad range of individual tastes and preferences, each with the comfort, quality and technology of a classic Mercedes.

Each automobile is a reaffirmation of an honored tradition which reaches back more than a century: the commitment to pushing out the bounds of technology. Continuing research using techniques including computer-aided design and manufacture helps maintain an industry leadership position in areas such as structural design, power management, safety technology and the budding efforts to conserve the ecology. From the first design sketch to the final assembly process, 300 Class models confirm the Mercedes-Benz commitment to excellence.

There are nine models available under the 300 Class: five sedans (300 D 2.5 Turbo, 300E 2.8, 300 E, 300 E 4MATIC™, 400 E); one sport sedan (500 E); two station wagons (300 TE, 300 TE 4MATIC™); and one coupe (300 CE).

At Mercedes-Benz, performance signifies a car that responds to the driver's input, precisely, over any likely road surface. In the 300D 2.5 Turbo, a five-cylinder turbocharged diesel accelerates with lively response, yet returns outstanding fuel mileage. The 300E 2.8 has a new, 2.8-liter DOHC 24-valve in-line six-cylinder that mixes robust performance with good fuel economy. The Individual components of each Mercedes-Benz reflect leading-edge engine technology as well as superb craftsmanship. Many 300 Class gasoline engines feature four valves per cylinder and dual overhead camshafts for more efficient performance. Cast iron six-cylinder engine blocks have thin-wall construction for reduced weight, while V-8 engine blocks are formed from aluminium alloy.

4MATIC™ all-wheel-drive models feature a 3.0 liter in-line six cylinder. Finally in the 300E, 300 CE and 300 TE, there's a new, efficient 3.2-liter DOHC 24-valve in-line six cylinder with 217 horsepower and a Control Area Network (CAN) system. The V-8 engines have variable intake valve timing and the CAN system of data management. Only Mercedes offers such a range of refined powerplants for such a varied range of driving requirements.

All engines in the 300 Class are designed to achieve superb reliability and performance characteristics. Exacting assembly techniques help assure that each will provide dependable service over many years.

As it is being assembled, each 300

Class engine receives individual attention. Critical components such as the pistons and bearings are hand-selected for optimum fit. Then, each engine is run on a test bed and verified for proper operation before it is placed in the automobile.

Routinely, a certain number of the tested engines will be subjected to longer-term evaluation and then be torn down to verify that all parts are functioning properly.

An active program of continuing research and development helps to assure that the 300 Class engines reflect the best technology.

For example, all Mercedes-Benz 3.2-liter gasoline engines have several on-board computers. Each computer is dedicated to a specific function and they are all linked together in a network to provide added reliability similar to that of the Mercedes-Benz 400E and 500E sedans. The CAN employs a single coaxial cable to allow real-time data sharing between computers, greatly enhancing overall system reliability.

To learn more about what Mercedes-Benz's commitment to technology can do for you and your family, stop by Smith Motors at 455-461 River St. in Haverhill, and test drive a Mercedes today, or call 372-2552.
